Amazon Affiliate Marketing Checklist

☐ Step 1 - Pick a Niche

Before you begin promoting products on Amazon as an Affiliate, the first step is actually picking a niche. It is best to go for a niche you are already passionate about. Think about the products you already personally use or buy from Amazon yourself and use that to get some ideas.

☐ Step 2 - Create Your Blog

Before you can begin promoting products on Amazon, it is important that you have a blog or website to submit to Amazon during registration. To create your blog, you would need a domain name and a Web Host. You can get them registered and set up at Bluehost from as little as £3 per month.

☐ Step 3 - Add Content to Your Blog

Now we have a blog set up, we want to begin adding some content. Again this will increase the chances of your account being approved by Amazon. If you submit a website with no content to Amazon upon registration, you stand a chance of your application being rejected. A great way to fill your blog with content is to use private label right articles at www.plrcastle.com. These are done for you articles you are legally allowed to reuse on your blog, vidoes, etc as your own. Aim for 15-20 blog posts before you register as an Amazon Affiliate. So go grab some content at: www.plrcastle.com and start creating some blog posts.

☐ Step 4 - Register as an Amazon Affiliate

Once you have your blog set up, it's time to register for an Amazon Affiliate Account. You can register for a free account at:

☐ Step 5 - Start Promoting Your Blog

Once your account is approved, it's time to start promoting products on your blog and getting paid. A great way to do this is to post product review content, how to use content, create youtube videos showing people how things work etc. The more consistent you are, the more likely your people will start to find you, purchase through you and make you money.
